The future is Aluminium
Plantation Shutters

Aluminium Plantation Shutters for indoors

Aluminium is inherently stronger, longer lasting and more durable than either PVC or timber making it the ultimate choice for family homes. Aluminium is one of the world's best heat reflectors, combined with double skin extrusions these panels provide excellent insulators for either heat or cold. Powder coating is the longer lasting of all paint finishes available for plantation shutters providing maintenance free and easy to clean window coverings. Aluminium is the most stable of all materials used to make shutters allowing for extra wide panels for capturing views and a streamlined look from the exterior.
